A Couple of Dons.

(Copyright, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.)

Don Artero of old Mexico was no don at all. He was a cattle stealer. Don Chuaya, his neighbor, was a real don and a cattle owner. Don Artero settled near Don Chuaya. He wasn't a desirable neighbor, and the government was asked to remove him. The government lingered. Five hundred of Don Chuaya's steers got mixed up with the other don's herds, and the government was asked to send troops. The government was very sorry, and so forth, but it had no use to spare.

Don Chuaya at once proceeded to hustle. He called in and armed his retainers to the number of fifty and made a descent on the other don with the avowed object of capturing 1,000 of his biggest and fattest steers. The other don heard of the contemplated raid, and there were an ambush and a fight, and the forces of Chuaya were put to flight. Twelve of them were killed and the others fled out of their boots. When a true don has been bucked up against the game and got the worst of it he feels as badly cut up as a hundred Uncle Rubes rolled into one. He swells with indignation. He gnashes his teeth in fury. He gets out at the front door and yells "Caraban!" at the top of his voice. He can't let things go that way. He is bound to get back at the other fellow if it takes his last red in cash and his last drop of blue blood.

Don Chuaya raised a hundred men this time. He figured that a hundred ought to lick twenty-five, but it so happened that Don Artero was mean enough to recruit his own force to seventy-five, and each one of them was worth three pons as fighters. When the forces came together the fight did not last ten minutes. Don Chuaya's men were defeated.

The next raid was made by Don Artero, and he gobbled up a thousand head of cattle. From thence on for the next two years he bothered the life out of the other and brought his proud head low with shame and humiliation. He even made threats of storming the Chuaya hacienda and putting all to the sword, and at last the old man with the white hair and proud title found himself under blackmail. He had to pay so much a month to be let alone.

These things were breaking Don Chuaya's heart when a red headed civil engineer belonging to the survey corps of the Mexican Central road came along one day and heard the story. He felt sorry for the don. He had been driven off the lands of the other with contempt, and he sighed for revenge. A civil engineer need not have been war to be able to see a strategic situation. This engineer saw one at the hacienda. He saw just where Don Artero would attack and just where he would meet with disaster. There weren't a dozen ponies on the ranch who would fight, and something besides fighting must be resorted to. The first thing was to find out what the don would do in case he attacked. Don Artero and his land, when told that all would be killed he sat down and had a talk with the old man. Four days later a hundred big bear traps arrived from Mexico City. The bear trap market was finer than Paris is favoring violet shades, but they will soon become common and therefore impossible for the woman of refinement. Blue in the greenish tone is to be a leader in color.

Lightweight fabrics will prevail all winter, preferably velvies in silk and wool mixtures. These materials are becoming; therefore they are issued a long life.

A pretty morning gown is a necessity of the wardrobe, and the model pictured is ideal for this purpose, as it adapts itself beautifully to all of the modish dress goods.

DR. BOLIN'S PAIR FORFEITED.

Charged With Attempted Burglary, Fails to Appear in Court.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Dr. Samuel Bolin, who Sunday was arrested here on a charge of attempted burglary, failed to appear in court yesterday for arraignment. His bail of $1,000 was forfeited. Justice Van Arman, when the case was called yesterday and Bolin did not appear, his counsel, John A. Van Selma, said:

"It is my firm belief that Bolin has gone away in desperation. I understand that he is greatly cut up, and his wife tells me that at seven o'clock this morning he left his home, saying that he would not come back."

The arrest of Dr. Bolin yesterday caused a sensation. The arrest was made before daylight, when the doctor was seen on a trolley car from Mount Vernon. Acquaintances of the doctor declare that a delirious man has been made by the police, in a letter here made a mystery of the affair, of which they say were will develop in a day or two. The present charge they say is a technical one.

MAE WOOD SUES PLATT

Names Sixteen Correspondents in Action

BROUGHT IN NEW YORK

Mae Wood Begins Action Against Senator for Divorce—Never Married, Says the New York Senator.

New York, Oct. 1.—Mae Catherine Wood, the government clerk who has for ten years past sought to compel United States Senator Thomas C. Platt to recognize her as his wife, and who has brought numerous and varied damage suits against him, and made several scenes, especially at the time of his marriage to Mrs. Lillian T. Janeway, today brought action in the supreme court for absolute divorce from the Senator.

It was reported at the time of his marriage to Mrs. Janeway that Senator Platt had bought immunity from further annoyance from Miss Wood by the payment of $10,000. The action was brought in the way of a motion by J. D. Lee, attorney for Miss Wood, before Justice Seabury, announcing the action as "Platt against Platt," and asking that it be heard in public.

Mr. Lee said the motion was for the purpose of framing an issue, and he wanted the details to become generally known. John B. Stanchfield, who appeared for Senator Platt, said the case was a very simple one. "Senator Platt was never married to Miss Wood," said he, "and therefore there was no ground for divorce. That will be the defense, and the case will be fought to the last cent."

Mr. Stanchfield in objecting to the action, pleaded for a referee and asked that the matter be heard in private. Justice Seabury took the papers and said he would decide the matter in a few days.

The fact that the former government clerk had pursued the feeble statesman for nearly ten years has been a matter of common gossip since he married Mrs. Janeway, and although the first named young woman has declared time and time again that the Senator was a bigamist, it was not believed that she was serious when she said she would show him up as such in court.

The young woman has named sixteen correspondents, and although their names have never become public, she herself announced that the former Mrs. Janeway was among the number.

Senator Platt's marital troubles began last year when he went for a trip West for his health. Several intimate friends accompanied him and after several days they began to notice that J. K. Hedges, the Platt coachman at Tioga Lodge, was among the travelers and was being treated more as guest than a menial. Upon the completion of the trip the senator made sensational charges against his wife, who retaliated.

RUSSIANS HELD UP YANKEE CRAFT.

Papers Taken, But Later Returned—Fishing Rights Are Involved.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 1.—Capt. Sasheloff of the fishing barkentine City of Papeete, which has arrived here from the Okhotsk sea, reports that on June 10 the captain of the Russian gunboat Mandjur took possession of the City of Papeete's papers, saying: "You have no right to fish here." Capt. Sasheloff continued:

"I answered: 'We have a right and are going to fish, anyway.' On July 10 the Mandjur returned our papers and the captain said the crew of the schooner John D. Spreckles went on shore for water and wood and set the grass and trees on fire at Little River."

Capt. Matheson of the barkentine Fremont, which also arrived here, reports that on June 12 his papers were taken by the Mandjur and returned on July 12, together with the papers taken from the barkentine S. N. Castle and the schooner John D. Spreckles.

DISAPPEARS WITH WAD OF BILLS IN POCKET

Searchers Trying to Find Wealthy Springfield Builder Who May Have Perished in the Woods.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 1.—Yesterday another party of searchers started out to find Moses P. Wheeler, a wealthy retired builder of this city, who mysteriously disappeared while returning from Worcester last Tuesday with $300 in his pockets which he secured just before leaving this city by cashing a check for that amount.

In spite of his being well provided with funds, it has been learned that he was turned away from one house three times Tuesday night and refused a place to sleep. It is believed he then became discouraged and wandered into the woods and perished. The house he called at was that of George Merrill on the Barrett road, between Indian Orchard and Chicopee Falls. Mr. Merrill works in Springfield until nearly midnight and his wife was alone in the house. The Kane murder, only a few miles from the Morrill house a month ago, has so frightened the residents of the plains that they are afraid of all strangers. The last time he called was at 10:30 o'clock, and he then appeared very tired and ill.

One of the searching parties, which numbered about 30 from Worcester, Springfield, Indian Orchard and Chicopee Falls, found Mr. Wheeler's umbrella caught in a barbed-wire fence about a mile back of the Morrill house. The searchers scoured the woods and explored the brook for a mile in all directions from the Morrill house, but could not find further traces.

Dr. George S. Clark of Worcester and Charles A. Wade of this city, sons-in-law of the missing man, were among the searchers. They believe that Mr. Wheeler has perished in the woods and have offered a reward for the finding of his body or information leading to his discovery alive. There are now inclined to believe that he has not met with foul play.

COTTON KING WHO WAS NEWSBOY TO RETIRE.

Eldridge Won Way from a Humble Position to Ownership of 75,000 Acres of Cultivated Cotton Land.

Hillhouse, Miss., Oct. 1.—Cotton men have followed with interest the remarkable career of John W. Eldridge, one of the best known cotton men of the south, learned yesterday that he had sold his mammoth plantation in consideration of $830,000 and assumption of mortgages.

Eldridge, who arose from a humble position to be known as the "cotton king" of the south, is to retire from active business. His sale of property to an English syndicate is one of the largest cotton deals recorded in years. He had 75,000 acres of cultivated cotton land, which is located near here, forming one of the greatest plantations in the country.

He was at one time a newsboy in Hillhouse. He is a relative of General Luke Wright, formerly an ambassador to Japan. The sale of his vast interests was engineered by E. S. French of Chicago, well known in the trade. Cotton men believe the transfer will have no effect on the cotton market at present.

FIRE CHIEF DEAD.

Two Others Hurt in Auto Accident at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 1.—George E. Cooper, chief of the fire bureau of Harrisburg, Pa., was instantly killed and John Chilly of Harrisburg and James A. Clark of Pittsburgh, a commissioner of Allegheny county, were badly injured early yesterday in an automobile accident on the Grant boulevard near Jones avenue.

Chief Cooper and Mr. Chilly were here to attend the Pennsylvania firemen's convention. Frank Blasing of Harrisburg also was injured.

John Sebel, the driver of the machine, was backed up in the central police station. The Harrisburg firemen were guests of County Commissioner Clark. While coming toward town along the boulevard at a good rate of speed, one of the wheels on the car broke. All the occupants, except Chilly, were caught beneath the automobile. Cooper was killed outright. The injured were taken to a hospital nearby.
